

ABSTRACT

An apparatus and associated method are provided to improve the programming of anti-fuse devices in an integrated circuit. A programming circuit capable of programming a plurality of anti-fuse devices in parallel permits a state-changing voltage to be applied to multiple anti-fuses substantially simultaneously using a common control signal.